TWO INJURED IN MISHAP

Two people were taken to Kelowna General Hospital Sunday morning for treatment of minor injuries received after this late-model passenger car blew a rear tire, went out of control and struck a rock embankment on Highway 97, south of Oyama. Injured were Wayne

Francis Sharp and Karen Chamberlain, both of Kamloops. Both were treated and released. Vernon RCMP estimate the total damage resulting in the mishap at about $1,000. (Kent Stevenson photo)

Plumbers Abide By Order Returning To Jobs Today

Area union representative Patrick Graves said local plumbers were all "on the job" today in spite of uncertainty expressed by Vancouver officials.

Mr. Graves said he received and passed on word of the union order to report for work by telegram on Sunday and he indicated all local workers complied with the order.

Les Andrew, business manager for Local 170 of the Plumbers and Pipefitters and Steamfitters Union, said today he thought the majority of the province's 5,300 plumbers would show up for work. "But with 5,300 people, it's hard to say how many will stay home," he said, adding the men were "hostile."

Plumbers walked off their jobs Friday to protest Bill 88, designed to limit union protection clauses in contract agreements. The walkout affected more than $700 million worth of construction projects in the province.

About 1,300 plumbers attended a rally in Vancouver Friday, but there was disagreement among them whether a vote concerning a business' agents' report amounted to a strike vote.

Mr. Andrew said a majority of those present voted against accepting the report, which contained a clause saying work should resume today. But the vote meant nothing more than refusal to accept the report, he said.

The plumbers are under orders from the union to return to work.

Labor Minister James Chabot's amendment to the Trade Union Act would compel the various construction unions to work with non-affiliated men.

Union leaders have been told by their lawyers that the amendment would not only wipe out protective work clauses, but picket line clauses which protect a unionist's job when he refused to handle goods declared "hot" by his union or to cross a legal picket line.

It would also curb the practice of unions refusing to handle materials declared "hot" by other unions or of persuading persons not to enter an employer's place of business, handle his products or carry on normal business with the firm.

"It's a hell of a note," said Mr. Andrew. We spend five weeks negotiating an agreement and the government is now trying to legislate it away."

But, he said, rather than authorize a continued walkout the union has advised its members to make their hostility to Bill 88 felt by contacting their M.L.A.s and "getting hold of John Q. Public."

Couple Hijacks Seaplane

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The young couple said they were off on a honeymoon camping trip to the Dry Tortugas Islands. But once in the air Sunday the two turned hijackers and commandeered a small seaplane to Cuba, authorities said.

An FBI spokesman in Miami said the Tortugas Airways seaplane was hijacked during the 45-minute flight to the islands, an American territory about 70 miles west of Key West.

An official at the Miami air traffic control centre said the Cessna 206, with three other persons aboard, landed safely in Cuba Sunday.

The airline spokesman identified the hijackers as a neatly dressed couple who gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sands of Boston.

Mrs. Morris Mazur, owner of a motel, said the couple checked in Saturday night after identifying themselves as honeymooners.

Exemption Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling baseball's reserve clause "the most obvious restraint" known to man, former Justice Arthur J. Goldberg urged the Supreme Court today to revise a 1922 decision exempting baseball from anti-trust laws. "This is a hardcore violation, group-boycotting, blacklisting," Goldberg said during a one-hour hearing. The clause binds a player to one team, he said.

Belfast Street Like Battlefield

Laporte's Nephew Able To Identify Only One Person

MONTREAL (CP) — The nephew of Pierre Laporte said today he saw four persons in a blue Chevrolet used to abduct the late Quebec labor minister but could identify only one of them.

Claude Laporte, 19, was testifying at the trial of Jacques Rose, charged with kidnapping Mr. Laporte Oct. 10, 1970.

The youth said the only person he could identify was Bernard Lortie, 21, has been convicted and sentenced to 20 years for the kidnapping.

Mr. Laporte was playing ball with Claude outside his suburban St. Lambert home when his kidnappers arrived.

Louise Laporte, 48, the minister's sister-in-law, said she was sitting outside the house when a car drove up and stopped beside Mr. Laporte.

She said two people got out of the car—one was carrying a rifle, the other was wearing a face mask. Mr. Laporte lifted both arms and stepped back when they approached him.

She heard one of the men tell him: "Get in, this is not a joke."

Mrs. Laporte said she could not identify the model or the year of the car, but remembered the licence number was 252420. When shown a photograph of a 1968 blue Chevrolet, she said it seemed to be the same car.

Jacques' brother Paul is serving two concurrent life sentences for the kidnapping-murder of Mr. Laporte. Francis Simard is serving a life sentence for the murder and awaits trial on a kidnapping charge. Lortie is awaiting trial on the murder charge.

The trial began last week.

Guerrillas Set Off Bomb Killing Six, Injuring 100

BEELFAST (Reuter) — Irish guerrillas apparently lured a big crowd into a street in central Belfast today then set off a bomb which killed at least six persons and injured more than 100.

Eyewitnesses said the scene of the blast—in Donegal Street—resembled a battlefield with "blood and bodies everywhere."

Two of the dead were policemen, and news reports said another fatality was a child, in the lunch-time blast—deadliest of the year in Northern Ireland.

Police said Donegal Street was more crowded than usual because of a plot to lure people to the scene.

"This was the deliberate attempt to kill innocent people—there is no doubt about it. The people who planted it must have known that people were being evacuated into its path," a police spokesman said.

An anonymous warning had been given of a bomb in nearby Church Street and the blast caught crowds who were being evacuated to supposed safety in Donegal Street.

SEVERAL BLINDED — The bomb went off in front of the News Letter, a leading Protestant newspaper. A News Letter journalist said there were huge pools of blood in the street and several people appeared to have been blinded by the blast.

Army experts estimated the size of the explosive at nearly 100 pounds. The car, a delivery van, disintegrated. Shop fronts and windows were destroyed.

All of the city's ambulances were mobilized and rushed to the scene of carnage. Emergency operations were carried out on the sidewalk by surgeons to remove shattered limbs.

The dead and dying lay in pools of blood in the street. The injured staggered around the street, blood pouring from their wounds.

Events leading up to the explosion were confused but police said there appeared to be a series of telephone calls warning of imminent explosions in at least three streets.

These calls resulted in the crowds being evacuated to what turned out to be the site of the blast. A final warning that the blast would occur in Donegal Street came too late.

A News Letter executive said the paper had been warned that a bomb had been planted nearby and they had 15 minutes to clear the building.

Within five minutes, the bomb had gone off. "We never had a chance to evacuate. Fortunately, we had moved most of the people away from the windows, but several of our girls were slashed by flying glass."

One News Letter employee, Linda Morrow, 19, said that one of the girls had been listening to police and army messages on a radio. "She told us that a bomb was due to go up in Church Street, about two blocks away, soon."

"It was a hell of a strain waiting, and it was terrible when it went off outside," Linda said. "Glass flew everywhere and part of the ceiling came down."

Many of the girls were led outside where medical teams treated them for cuts and shock.

COVER CUTS — Many of the girls held towels and handkerchiefs to their faces to cover cuts and slashes.

Passers-by said the bomb was apparently planted in a furniture delivery truck parked on Donegal Street.

Tears streaming down his face, a policeman shouted: "The swines who did this will gain nothing by it."

Frank Heagan, 58, was walking down Donegal Street when the bomb exploded. He said:

"I saw two dustmen (garbage men). They were blown to pieces."

"There was blood everywhere and people were moaning and screaming. The street was full of girls and women all wandering about."

It was the second major blast in Belfast's centre this month.

Yugoslav Airliner Crashes All 30 Aboard Feared Dead

ADEN (CP) — An Egyptian-chartered Yugoslav airliner crashed and exploded in flames on Aden's only mountain Sunday night and one report said all 30 persons aboard were killed.

The twin-engine DC-9 jet smashed into the 1,800-foot high peak of Mount Shamsan as it came in to land.

A spokesman at Cairo airport said all 30 aboard were killed. The DC-9, chartered by Egypt Air, the Egyptian national airline, carried 21 passengers and a crew made up of five Yugoslavs and four Egyptians, the spokesman said.

The flight originated in Cairo, where it took on 13 passengers, and stopped at Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, where it picked up eight others, he said.

An earlier report saying the plane carried only 13 passengers apparently did not take into account the eight passengers picked up in Jeddah.

300 HEAD FOR WRECK — A South Yemeni air force plane circled Mount Shamsan as 300 men set off to reach the wreckage—stumbling up the mountain's craggy side.

The jet was seen by people of Crater, Aden's old settlement nestled below the mountain, circling over the area.

Eyewitnesses said they heard an explosion and then saw flames light up the mountain.

The Middle East news agency said a team of Egyptian investigators will go to the scene later today.

Aden, located on the southern end of the Arabian peninsula, is part of the People's Republic of South Yemen.

Traffic Deaths Claim 33 In Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A birthday celebration in Aylmer, Que., ended in tragedy Sunday as a fire in an apartment building killed six persons.

The weekend road deaths, along with 33 in the previous weeks, bring the number of persons killed on Canadian highways since Jan. 1 to at least 558.

The fire victims were among 42 persons who died accidentally during the weekend.

A survey by The Canadian Press also showed that 33 persons died in traffic mishaps, two by drowning, one in a snowmobile mishap and one was scalded to death. The survey was between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday night, local times.

FOR OIL PIPELINE

Mackenzie Valley Route Better

WASHINGTON (CP) — A Mackenzie Valley oil pipeline route through Canada would cause less damage to the environment than the proposed Trans-Alaska pipeline, a long-awaited interior department report said today.

On economic grounds, it says, there is not much to choose between the two.

But on the grounds of United States national security, the Alaska pipeline was clearly favored because it could deliver North Slope Alaskan oil up to three years sooner than any of the other alternatives.

The nine-volume report, weighing 25 pounds, was prepared under court order after conservation groups won an injunction in 1970 blocking pipeline construction.

The interior department hopes the report on the environmental impact of the proposed project will satisfy the courts, but conservation groups have indicated they will demand new public hearing on grounds the final report includes new material not considered at previous hearings.

The report concluded that "perfect no-poll performance would be unlikely during the lifetime of the pipeline." And it gives detailed assessments of a wide variety of damaging effects on wildlife, lakes and streams, Alaska's native peoples and the North Pacific through which tankers would transport the oil to U.S. West Coast ports.

Canadian objections to the proposed 800-mile trans-Alaska line have centred on increased tanker traffic generated by moving oil from Alaska's ice-free southern port of Valdez to the West Coast, because of potential pollution damage to the British Columbia coast.

The interior department emphasized that its statement does not contain any decisions. It adds that "no action on the application for the (construction) permit will be taken for at least 45 days, because of the complexity of the analysis."

Although the key sections of today's report dealt with the environmental impact of the Trans-Alaska pipeline, economic and defence considerations are expected to play an important role in the eventual decision about whether the pipeline is to be built.

They were dealt with in three of the nine volumes—one of them a summary of economic and security considerations, the other two a compilation of supporting documents.

In a terse introduction, the summary said no alternative to the Alaska pipeline "is economically more efficient," but it added that the Mackenzie Valley route is the "only equally efficient alternative."

North Slope oil delivered to the U.S. Midwest by a Trans-Alaska route would have no more effect on prices there than would oil delivered to the West Coast by Trans-Alaska pipeline and tanker prices in the Midwest would remain higher than those on the West Coast.

Canada Wants To Manage Her Offshore Fisheries

Federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Saturday that Canada is determined to press for management of her offshore fisheries before the world in 1973. Mr. Davis, in an interview during an inshore fisheries conference in Larry's River, N.S., said it was possible the 1973 Law of the Sea conference in Geneva, at which Canada has planned to make the case for offshore fishery management, will be postponed a year.

If it were postponed 12 to 18 months, we would be tempted to invite all members of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization to Canada," Mr. Davis said.

A 72-year-old recluse dragged from his home in the Amazon jungle on suspicion of being a Nazi war criminal, Martin Bormann has turned out to be just "a nice old man," in the words of police in Pistoia, Colombia.

Her blue eyes sparkling, 17-year-old Julianne Koepeke, lone survivor of a jungle airplane crash which killed 91 persons at Christmas, renewed old friendships Sunday and prepared to resume studies in Lima.

She made headlines by surviving the crash deep in the jungle 300 miles northeast of Lima. Suffering from shock, a broken collar bone and cuts which soon became infected with insect larvae, Julianne walked, waded and swam along a jungle stream for 11 days until she reached a camp where she was found by Indian woodcutters. "I'm completely recovered and ready to return to my studies," she said after her return to Lima Saturday with her father Dr. Hans Koepeke, a German-born ecologist. Julianne's mother died in the crash.

Robert Borrie, Liberal MP for Prince George-Peace River, said Saturday in Fort Nelson "British Columbia and Ottawa should get off what they're sitting on and do something" about completion of the 210-mile link between Fort Nelson, B.C., and Fort Simpson, N.W.T. Mr. Borrie, chairman of the parliamentary committee on Indian Affairs and Northern Development, said at a dinner meeting in Fort Nelson that completion of the highway, scheduled for 1973, is being held up by lack of agreement between B.C. and the federal government. The highway was started in 1968 under a federal-provincial agreement, by which the federal government would build the 120-mile section in the Northwest Territories and B.C. would build the 90 miles in B.C. The federal government halted construction after 30 miles, complaining that B.C. had not fulfilled its agreement.

Commercial relations between Canada and the United States have changed considerably since 1966, and Americans are worried about the changes, Jean-Luc Pepin, industry and commerce minister, said Saturday. Mr. Pepin was critical of John Connally, secretary of the U.S. treasury. "What bothers Mr. Connally," said Mr. Pepin, "is to see that we are doing so well, that we are succeeding so remarkably in the balance of payments where we had a surplus of $1.1 billion in 1971." Mr. Pepin said the Canadian government is trying to be firm in its economic relations with the U.S. "We must have at least the possibility of trying to have this surplus," he said, while "Mr. Connally seems to be opposed to the idea."

The month-old split in the Quebec Creditiste party hardened into outright schism during the weekend when two factions of the party held separate meetings and refused to recognize each other. Now, the party has two leaders and two executives, each claiming to be the true representative of Quebec provincial Creditistes. Camil Samson, former party leader who was expelled from the Creditiste caucus of the Quebec national assembly, was returned to the leadership by a cheering meeting which claimed to be the party's annual meeting. But Philippe Cossette, party president, and Armand Bois, appointed interim Creditiste leader by the party executive last Feb. 20, dismissed the Samson meeting as illegal.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, bearing a new friendship treaty with Bangladesh, returned from Dacca on Sunday and said peace talks with Pakistan will begin "some time or other." Mrs. Gandhi set no date for the negotiations saying only there are "prospects" of them. In any case, she added, India would like preliminary discussions before any summit meeting between her and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan. Bhutto told a rally in Lahore, Pakistan, that he also wants a peace dialogue. He called on Mrs. Gandhi to release Pakistani prisoners of war to warm the atmosphere for the discussions. Mrs. Gandhi and Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh warned Saturday that the 90,000 prisoners will stay locked up until Bhutto accords diplomatic recognition to Bangladesh.

TOOK 8 YEARS TO PAY OFF BET

BURY, England (Reuter)—When Wally Wilson got up Sunday morning after two hours sleep he was 70, slightly hung-over but healthy... and £1,000 ($2,600) poorer.

At the stroke of midnight, Wilson, a retired bookmaker, paid out on a bet he took eight years ago, at 1,000-to-1 odds, that he would not live to be 70.

The recipient was a 59-year-old laborer, Jack Burns, a drinking companion in a Bury pub who put up £1 in 1964 on his friend's longevity. Wilson, suffering from the after-effects of a long celebration that followed the payout, said he was "rather glad" to have reached 70.

"It was a grand party," he said. "Jack had never seen £1,000 in his life before."

Murder Arson In Explosion Killing Woman

TORONTO (CP) — Police Inspector Jack Webster said Sunday night the death of a 45-year-old cleaning woman in an explosion and fire that heavily damaged a supermarket and adjoining travel agency Saturday night was "murder and arson."

Mrs. Stefano Simone, 45, a mother of two children, was found buried in rubble early Sunday. The explosion, which police suspect was triggered by a bomb, also injured five other persons who were in the area.

And police said late Sunday they were continuing to search the debris for a seventh person who remained unaccounted for. That person was not immediately identified.

The supermarket was levelled and the travel agency next door, Agenzia Viaga Italiana, along with a real estate office, caught fire. Toronto firemen had the blaze extinguished 45 minutes after they arrived at the scene.

Bonanza Budget Is Sought From Barber

LONDON (CP) — The great set piece of Britain's parliamentary year comes Tuesday and Anthony Barber, chancellor of the exchequer, is under pressure to give the country the news of a bonanza budget that day.

Barber posed this weekend for the ritual newspaper photographs of the chancellor with his wife and family, smilingly looking forward to the announcement of the government's plans for the coming fiscal year.

Many supporters of the Conservative government are hoping that Barber will announce tax cuts designed both to help a stagnant economy achieve a new lease on life and to bolster the appeal of Prime Minister Heath's government.

Recent months have seen a continuing rise in unemployment although the radical inflation which began in the late 1960s has—so Conservatives insist—been lately tapering off somewhat.

But the combination of generally unfavorable economic circumstances has served to reduce the Tory government's popularity.

But Allan MacEachen, government House leader, reserved the right to rejig the order of business when he outlined it late last week.

The equalization bill is at the final Commons stage before passage, having completed the committee study stage without amendment. It is expected to be a debating vehicle to carry argument about federal-provincial relations but generally have accepted the need for continued federal payouts to bring standards in the less-well-off provinces up to those in the Big Three—Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

TAX BILL NEXT
Mr. MacEachen said a government bill introducing income tax cuts is next in line. The legislation is mainly academic since the cuts were introduced last year and have been effective since July 1. They reduced personal income tax by three per cent and corporate income tax by seven per cent.

Following that, the House could take up amendments to the Explosives Act. These are

Hughes B.C. Visit Likely Business

VANCOUVER (CP) — Howard Hughes' visit to Vancouver Friday, said he does not know the nature of Mr. Hughes' trip and has not seen his boss since his arrival.

Richard Hannah, chief spokesman for the billionaire-recluse, told reporters Sunday Mr. Hughes is here on business and that there are indications the business is Canadian in nature.

"But that's just an inference I'm drawing from the fact that he is here," Mr. Hannah said. "For all I know, it could be business in outer Mongolia."

And he denied rumors that a photograph of the world's wealthiest recluse is about to be released or that Mr. Hughes plans to end his long seclusion by holding a news conference.

"Both the photograph and the press conference are things we hope will occur, but there are no immediate plans for either," he said.

DOESN'T KNOW HOW LONG
Mr. Hannah said Mr. Hughes has given no indication of how long he plans to remain in Vancouver.

In fact, Mr. Hannah said, he does not know how long he himself will be here.

"I'll probably be here as long as the press interest continues and I have an idea that won't be too much longer," he said.

Mr. Hannah, who arrived in Vancouver from Los Angeles Friday, said he does not know the nature of Mr. Hughes' trip and has not seen his boss since his arrival.

"He normally doesn't say what he will do until he's done it," Hannah said.

Meanwhile, the object of the attention remained secluded on the 20th floor of the Bayshore Inn.

ACTS LIKE ANYONE
Mr. Hannah said his boss is spending his time "reading, watching television, conducting business—the things anyone does."

Mr. Hannah did little to bolster the sagging hopes of reporters who have kept a vigil at the Bayshore on the longest shot chance of seeing the mysterious Hughes.

"He won't be coming through the lobby with any fanfare," he said.

As for Mr. Hughes' difficulties with the Nevada gaming control board, Mr. Hannah said they will "work themselves out."

The Nevada officials have asked for a face-to-face meeting with Mr. Hughes, who owns seven casinos in Reno and Las Vegas.

Mr. Hannah denied reports that Mr. Hughes would close the Nevada operations and said, "It's a very involved situation there that's largely political in nature."

use at sea, and officials say oil is being contained and picked up by a specially designed "slick-licker"—a barge with an attachment for picking up oil.

Norman Sigsworth, a spokesman for the federal transport department, said in an interview Sunday he had seen little evidence of oil in the wreck area, although he said he might not have been to the spot Dr. Austin described.

Dr. Austin said he is dismayed that it took crews three days to get a boom in place around the ship.

"It seems to me as a layman that things here could have been better organized," he said.

Mr. Sigsworth said everything possible had been done to avoid the spill. Weather had prevented placing the booms necessary to contain the oil.

Salvage attempts for 118 of 300 Japanese cars aboard the ship by Seaspan International, which had a deep-sea vessel, three towboats and three barges at the scene, were suspended Sunday on request from the transport department while anti-pollution measures are taken.

Shrum Has Little Comment On Power Rate Hike Hints

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of British Columbia Hydro, said he can't shed any light on the hints Premier W. A. C. Bennett threw out last week that an industrial power rate increase is imminent.

"I just can't say," Dr. Shrum said Sunday, hastening to point out industrial rates have been increased since the last residential rate increase last April.

Last fiscal year, industrial customers took 47 per cent of the total electricity generated by B.C. Hydro and commercial customers took 21 per cent.

Four per cent was delivered to export or private utility markets and residential customers took 28 per cent of Hydro's electricity for which they paid $78.3 million. Customers other than residential paid $114.6 million for the 72 per cent of Hydro's electricity received by them.

Effective April last year, B.C. Hydro increased rates to 20 large industrial customers by 12.5 per cent.

TWO YEARS' NOTICE
At the same time, two years' notice was given to a group of large bulk users of a rate increase scheduled for April 1.

The notice is necessary because of terms of their contracts.

Affected will be pulp and paper mills and chemical firms taking electrical power directly off Hydro's high-voltage transmission lines.

In answer to a question in the legislature Friday, Mr. Bennett said Hydro was studying power demands to determine whether the rate structure favoring bulk consumers with lower rates should be changed.

The premier's reference did not appear to have any special significance for Dr. Shrum, who said study of all rates was going on all the time.

He said bulk users do not get discounts, but do get lower rates than residential users because they are cheaper to service. He said a residential user must run up a $10 to $12 bill each month before he is beginning to pay for his service.

Two Industries Central Issues In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Industries based on two of Newfoundland's richest natural resources—wood and fish—became central issues during the weekend in the campaign for next Friday's provincial election.

With the Liberal opposition reiterating that it is still not satisfied with what it and the public has been told about one government take-over, Premier Frank Moores' Progressive Conservative administration announced another—the big linerboard mill at Stephenville in western Newfoundland.

The announcement by Finance Minister John Crosbie that the government will assume control of the Stephenville mill followed repeated suggestions from Edward Roberts' Liberals that the massive project would fold.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

Music Man's Music Made Show A Winner

By BETHEL STEELE

A reprieve for Music Man. It has been a long time since I have wanted to do such a thing, let alone have the opportunity. This year it was an old times, I attended three nights, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. I wish to thank producer Dr. George Deagle for the courtesy. It was nice to be made to feel so welcome. And I have the feeling the circumstances would have been the same had I been super critical. KMP has shown again at last that it can take criticism in the spirit in which it is given.

My apologies to all producers if I neglect a personal thank you. I find a heavy calendar does not leave much time for letter writing.

Friday night someone accosted me with the remark, "Heavens, you here again and whatever for?" I thought that one over. Apparently it just was not enough to be there because I enjoyed the show so I decided on an answer. I was there because I was trying to figure out why the show was so good. It is always easy to spot the reason when a show is poor. It is when something is really good that one has to do a question and answer job.

This time it was the music, no doubt about it. The Meredith Wilson music is melodious as well as rhythmical. The tunes are catchy. As one person stated, "You must be dreaming this music." And I did. But it was what Robin Jarman did with the music that made it what it was in the over-all production. A fine conductor is worth his weight in gold.

Opening night excitement and pace held up Wednesday and I understand through Thursday but Friday night there was an over-all let down although individual performances developed. By Friday Charley Cowell was really wheeling. Mike Amariyllis from the beginning. This is a clever little

The caller for Shipooi was priceless. I was enjoying dances double so by Friday as I knew then what to look for. The Pickalittle ladies were priceless throughout. They were the funniest Wednesday night. I marvel at the development of Ron McKeogh. His malapropisms take the clever characterization he was able to give the part of the inept mayor. Harold Hill grew on one but I wish he had not moved quite so much in his songs. Move yes, but not to distort. When he was still the strength and power of his characterization came through. This is a very fine actor.

Please, KMP, in future spend some time on solid research on costumes when you are doing a period piece. This Music Man's costumes were not all correct. They were the one, can I call it, sour note.

And then, my dearly beloved Barbershoppers. You were naughty, naughty boys. Tuesday you were a very nearly Barbershop Quartet. Wednesday night you were still with it but by Friday night you had become "arty".

Barbershop singing is a music genre all its own with its own standard and its own style. Let all vocal teachers and coaches take note and keep hands off. Harmony had greatly improved by Friday night but where was that lovely stretching of the cadences so I did, and that delightful milk-milk-milk. Anything less or different defeats the composer's true purpose. And you have it in you boys. You are a lovely, lovely foursome but please be Barbershop when you sing Barbershop. Leave the vocalizing to the straight singers.

Good luck for next year KMP and please pick another "musical" musical.

CMA Head Urges A Halt To Increasing Taxation

REGINA (CP) — The president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association said today the most important task facing Canada in the 1970s is to halt the increasing share of national income taken by governments.

Gerard Filion, president of Marine Industries Ltd., told a joint meeting of the CMA and the Canadian Club that during the last five years tax revenues of the three levels of government increased 50 per cent faster than the national economy.

"It is a major reason why the private wealth-producing sector cannot do an even better job than it is doing of creating new and productive job opportunities," Mr. Filion said.

Mr. Filion said government revenues, during the last five years, have increased 75 per cent while the gross national product has increased only 48 per cent.

"The root cause of much of this is to be found in the fantastically expensive open-ended social programs we embarked upon in the '60s," he said.

Mr. Filion said while an unemployment rate of six per cent or more is unacceptable, vast job-creating programs by governments in the public sector are not the solution.

"People and their productive capabilities should not be permanently lost to the private sector because that is where they can make the greatest contribution to the real growth of the Canadian economy."

"Inasmuch as we remove resources out of the private sector, making them no longer subject to individual and corporate decision, we are moving away from a market economy and into the direction of a command economy."

The text of Mr. Filion's speech was released in advance of delivery.

Producers Want Egg Board Change

A dispute has developed between egg producers in the interior and on coast on the make-up of the provincial egg marketing board. It now has three representatives from the lower mainland, and one from both the interior and Vancouver Island.

The legislature agriculture committee Friday in Victoria heard a suggestion by the Okanagan-Mainline Egg Producers' Association that the board be replaced with one giving equal representation to all three areas, with other members being named by the B.C. agriculture department.

Interior producers have accused their lower mainland counterparts of using board marketing policies to put Fraser Valley eggs in other parts of B.C.

However, the B.C. Egg Producers' Association, representing the 80 per cent of producers who live in the mainland area, thinks interior and island producers have more representation in relation to the number of producers, and board policies have added these two areas more than the mainland area.

Agriculture committee chairman Don Marshall, Soledad MLA for Peace River South, said "a hot session in camera" may be needed to find a solution.

Reusable Spacecraft Site Almost Sure To Be Florida

HOUSTON, Tex. (Reuter) — Cape Kennedy Space Centre in Florida has emerged as an almost inevitable contender for launch and landing site facilities when the U.S. space program moves into the era of reusable spacecraft.

The decision by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to ask industry to design a space shuttle in which both the orbiter and the booster sections will be reusable makes choice of any inland shuttle site unlikely, NASA administrator Dr. James Fletcher told reporters.

This is because the booster rockets must be parachuted into the sea after launching the delta-shaped "space plane" into orbit. Inland sites in New Mexico and a number of other regions had been pushed as suitable shuttle bases in the competition for federal funds and employment.

Fletcher said it was a definite possibility that NASA would choose two sites, one on the east coast and one on the west. The eastern site would be for equatorial orbits and the western one, for which Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., is a strong bidder, would launch into polar orbits.

The space shuttle, due to become operational by 1980, will carry a pilot, co-pilot and two others in the crew section and have room for 12 passengers or equivalent cargo—such as a satellite—in the payload compartment. It will stay in orbit for up to 30 days.

USE SOLID FUEL

The biggest surprise in Wednesday's announcement of the NASA design requirement for the shuttle was the decision to use solid fuel instead of liquid in the booster stage.

It will be the first time solid fuel has been used for any manned spacecraft. NASA said it should cut development costs from the $5.5 billion approved by President Nixon in January to $5.15 billion over a six-year period.

The cost of each mission, however—and NASA estimates there will be up to 40 launches a year—will be about $10.5 million instead of around $7 million using a liquid-fuelled booster.

The shuttle will be launched piggy-back, with thrust coming from the booster's two rockets and from the liquid-fuelled rocket of the orbiter stage firing simultaneously.

Once in orbit, the orbiter's external fuel tank, empty of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen, will be jettisoned to land at some desolate area. It will be the shuttle's only major throw-away component.

The orbiter will be able to land with or without using its air-breathing jet engine once it has re-entered the atmosphere.

Hatred, Division Hallmarks Of Socred Policy-Strachan

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Rob Strachan, former provincial New Democratic Party leader, accused the Social Credit government Saturday of seeking to divide society for political purposes.

Beach And Ground Work Are Subjects

LAKEVIEW HEIGHTS—Work on the beach and playgrounds will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Lakeview Heights Recreation Commission 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Women's Institute Hall.

The commission is responsible for the beach, and for developing a playground on Anders Road. Okanagan Telephone has given land behind its new exchange building.

Jon MacKinnon, B.C. government recreation consultant in Kelowna, will speak on playground development.

The commission was started about six years ago. Tennis courts were built last year as a centennial project. The commission has swimming and gymnastic lessons, and sponsors a sports day.

Money comes from the irrigation and parks district, and dances are also held. Any resident can serve two years on the commission. Chairman is Clive Gilbert, secretary Mrs. Marie Williams, treasurer Tun Wong, other members Jim Wilson, Mrs. Ernest Choe, Mrs. Alec MacLeod, Mrs. Bill Bregeda and Bill Sloff. Mrs. Williams, Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Bregeda retire this year.

SMUGGLERS FOILED — Customs officials at Lod Airport have foiled an attempt to smuggle out the largest haul of uncut diamonds in Israeli history, police said Sunday. Police detained Mira Rosenfeld, 30, a citizen of the Netherlands, after finding diamonds worth $260,000 in a false bottom of her hand luggage. Also detained were her Israeli husband and an Israeli diamond exporter.

APSELEY, England (CP) — Britain's high speed post office has finally beaten the clock. One man in Nottinghamshire received a letter postmarked Dec. 12, 1972.

Kelowna Member Wins 4-H Finals In Regional Speech Contest Here

Maureen Davis, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Davis of Kelowna won the 4-H Club speech finals for the Kamloops-Okanagan region Saturday night at the Rutland Japanese United Church hall. Competing against seven other finalists before a crowd of more than 70 friends and families, Maureen chose the telephone-a-highway of speech, as her topic.

The grade 12 Immaculata High student will represent this region in the provincial finals at Vanderhoof during Easter week. She is a senior member of the Kelowna 4-H Home Craft Club.

Miss Davis outlined the growth of the telephone from the first company formed in 1878 by inventor, Alexander Graham Bell, to the tremendous volume handled today, the distances conquered and the miracles of modern communication in industry, commerce and personal lives. With humorous asides she touched on party lines, and other uses and misuses of the telephone.

Runner-up was Diane Ogilvie who represented the Kamloops South Beef Club 'A'. She spoke on the historic Fort St. James, first capital of the province of British Columbia. Indian legends and folklore and a sprinkling of early explorers and important leaders in the province's pioneering days added interest to her speech, which was concluded with an invitation to her listeners to visit the site, which is also a fisherman's paradise.

Other competitors were Carol Ann Perry, Twin Valley Lamb Club, Kamloops; Kerry Turner, Mara Club, Salmon Arm; Marie Ayling, Grindrod Club, Salmon Arm; Martin Regan, Kelowna Dairy Club; Doug Sanderson, Keremeos Circle K Beef Club and Mary Lou Dunn, South Okanagan Beef Club, Summerland.

Carol Ann Perry spoke on birds of prey. Her informative speech was packed with particulars of the eagle species, habits of hunting and haunts as well as some unusual true-to-life anecdotes. She concluded with a plea for conservation of wildlife.

The need for and the benefits of organic gardening were forcefully presented by Marie Ayling. Details on organic gardening, use of composts and other secrets of nature's ingenuity in dealing with insects instead of insecticides, were presented by the young woman, who urged her listeners to play a part in solutions to the ecological crisis.

The cowboy, his origin, his place in early days and his role today, were presented with authentic details by Douglas Sanderson, who gave his listeners a verbal picture of the colorful character who has emerged from the days of mustangs, and a Spanish origin to today's hardworking stockman, who uses a jeep as often as not.

As the chairman for the evening, Archie Hardy remarked when Mary Lou Dunn completed her talk on Pacific Salmon, "I never knew there were so many kinds of salmon." Miss Dunn spoke mainly on the five species known as Chum, Coho, Chinook, Sockeye and Pink. Their life cycle, spawning habits and weights proved interesting to the audience who learned a good deal

Citizenship Involvement Is Needed In Law

By MARY GREER

About a month ago, a young mother, the sole support of her three children, was robbed on her way home from attending night school classes at the Kelowna Secondary School. According to her, three clean looking youths in the teen-age bracket stepped out of the darkness when she was walking along Richter Street in the vicinity of Martin Avenue, and snatched her purse. In addition to the $11 she was carrying to pay for text books, it contained all her identification cards: medical, birth certificate, driver's licence, social security and all the necessary cards a citizen needs nowadays.

Earlier in the winter, another Kelowna woman driving on Bernard Avenue near the Dr. Knox Junior high school during the noon hour on a cold wintry day, gave three young teen-age hitch-hikers a ride. Later she discovered that they had rewarded her kindly act, by taking her wallet.

Your first reaction to this growing list of petty thievery and robberies is probably the same as most. What kind of parents do these young people have? What are they learning in school? Where are the police?

But hold on a minute, let's take a second look. All kinds of parents are involved nowadays. Some of them very fine citizens and not all are working mothers, either. When a young teenager is out, often his peers are a greater influence than his 'square' parents. It is true some parents don't care, some are not home enough (again they are not all working mothers) and some parents simply cannot cope with the changing system.

Parents can help, however, if they do learn of a misdeed, by not covering up or shielding the culprit. Some psychologists say that boys do these things because they need a challenge to meet the age-old test of becoming a man—like Davy Crockett's 'bear he bagged when only three.'

An example of parents with good principles, comes to mind. Two young boys were discovered pelling ripe tomatoes at a neighbor's windows. When the parents of one boy were informed by the neighbor, the culprit was reprimanded at home, made to clean up the mess and apologize to the neighbor. That youngster acquired some manhood right there and quickly too, I might add.

While it is true young people spend as many of their day-time hours at school as they do with their parents, teachers have a heavy curriculum to cover and besides, to my knowledge, there are no text books that incorporate such religious aspects as 'Thou Shalt Not Steal.' While it is a touchy subject, it could be incorporated into many courses easily, such as law and social studies pertaining to community development and civic duties.

The police—first of all, for the police force to patrol every street in the city on anything like a nightly round, would require a force 10 times greater than the present one. Costs would be prohibitive. Can we as taxpayers and residents afford to pay for all the protection we need? Where are we heading? As population swells, will we reach the point of barred windows, double padlocked doors such as in New York where no one walks even half a block after sundown.

It is easier for us to criticize the police is it not? There are probably some officers who are not as conscientious as they could be regarding the investigation of petty crimes as those mentioned. But blaming the whole force for one or two, is likely to worsen the situation. Better to channel criticism if valid, to the proper authority. They, too, are human and have families growing up, they are as concerned as we are, with their relationship to the community.

It appears that this is a social problem we, as citizens, must face up to and must become involved in. Perhaps this could be a study for the Social Planning Council. How do you get citizens involved in the law? Are we expecting 'them' (the police) to assume all the responsibility, with very little co-operation from us? The early pioneers gave the RCMP and its forerunner the Royal North West Mounted Police, whole hearted co-operation. They were happy to loan an officer of the law a new horse if needed or to give him a bed and a hot meal and they were not afraid of passing on information or reporting anything suspicious.

We don't want to become informers, but where do we draw the line? Are we not getting too withdrawn, afraid to be a witness, unwilling to help either a policeman or persons in trouble. Remember the infamous case of the woman stabbed to death in front of an apartment building in New York? You're thankful you live in peaceful little old Kelowna and wouldn't want to live in a large metropolitan area? Well, hear this, when the woman mentioned at the beginning of this column was robbed, the first house she knocked at, to get help to call the police, turned her away. Remember, it was only a little past 9 p.m. The woman in question weighs something like 105 pounds yet the woman who answered the door that night, slammed the door in her face when she cried, "Help me, I have been robbed and I want to call the police."

The Sample Game Is Kinette Theme

By MARY GREER

Sampling was the game and the rules were mix and match when the Kinettes Club of Kelowna sponsored its second annual 'ladies night out' during the weekend at the Elks' hall on Pandosy Street.

The evening started off with sampling at 7:30 p.m. when many tempting arrays of hors d'oeuvres were set out during the sociability hour. Games of chance were offered and those who like to try a little 'mad money' were offered a variety of games, including the oldie 'bingo'.

The smorgasbord dinner, a delectable feast of gourmet dishes was another sampling adventure. Many of the 100 women attending succumbed to temptation and came away with heaped plates of calories, but satisfied palates. In many cases, the sampling proved the old adage, 'the eye is bigger than the stomach' still runs true, when good cooks provide the right test.

The hall, decked in gay colorful streamers which provided a canopy for the ceiling, also featured some highly original posters on the walls, all in keeping the multi-themed night, an Easter bunny definitely smoked an Irish type pipe and there were mod pussy cats and one silhouette of a woman's lib type was up front with mod daisies and happy Smilers on other posters.

TASTE THRILLS

One of the most popular sampling events was the threefold demonstration of party fare, which all appreciated. One featured a variety of exotic type gourmet foods, such as smoked eels, pickled caterpillars and such 'goodies'. The braver ones sampled each and every kind, while others failed the test of getting past their imaginations. Cocktail mixes were also available for sampling and again many welcomed the opportunity of a taste without having to purchase a supply.

The Kinettes provided three fondues, with ample supplies for not only first but second samples. In the same demonstration, many connoisseurs of wines were happy to sample one or more of the 14 wines on hand. Novice wine tastes were delighted to be able to test one or two new kinds.

The prospective Sweet Adelines conducted by Brock Lupton made their first public appearance at the event.

After a number of old favorites they made their finale with a parody on Women's Lib, using the melody of Look What They've Done To Our World, Mom.

"Look what they've done to our world, gals, Look, what they've done to our world, gals, Women's Lib has us all uptight, And we're ready for the fight, Oh Mama. Look what they've done to our world."

In a more flamboyant manner the Kinettes' own chorus line, the Tennessee Birdwalkers, put the show on the road to a happy mood of laughter and kicks.

The old favorite Bye, Bye Blackbird, was spiced up with new phrases, also on the Women's Lib theme. Soloist 'Grannie' Lehorn stole the spotlight with her earthy phrases as the kick line flipped, scratched and flattered their feathers through a lively dance line.

Adding to the excitement of the evening, was the grand array of prizes, which general convener, Mrs. Ernest Day, managed to give away through suspense filled draws at intervals during the evening. The top lot of the evening was of course, the milk stole, one lucky gal took home as a memento.

Committee chairmen for the event, which kept the entire membership busy, were: food, Mrs. Percy Tinker; entertainment, Mrs. James Lidster; decorations, Mrs. George Buttucci; tickets, Mrs. Warren Coulter and prizes, Mrs. Peter Bulatovich.

HITHER and YON

Among the many guests who their guests, promises to be a enjoyed meeting artist Ken Kirby and Mrs. Kirby of Vancouver at the Jack Hambleton Galleries, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Hambleton were out-towners, Mr. and Mrs. P. Lloyd and Carl Michel, all of Penticton. From Vernon were Mrs. Holly Middleton, Jessie Topham-Brown and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kidson and Dr. and Mrs. J. Philip. Mr. Kirby, a native of London, England, came to Vancouver in 1938. He has travelled extensively throughout this province and his show continues until March 25 at the local gallery.

The entertainment committee of the ladies section of the Kelowna Golf and Country Club, in conjunction with the club committee have arranged a mixed bingo for March 24 at 8 p.m. The event for members and Members of Club 76 of the Senior Citizens Association enjoyed a concert presented by the Golden Triangle Inter City Band at their St. Patrick party in the Legion hall on Friday night. Table themes were carnations tinted with green and the ladies who served added another Irish touch with their Shamrock corsages. Games and prizes were given and dancing rounded out the evening.

Glenda Kinney who is majoring in recreation leadership at the Cariboo College at Kamloops, enjoyed the weekend at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kinney of Doksen Road, Okanagan Mission.

The executive of the Kelowna Art Exhibit Society met at the home of the president, Mrs. Henry Smith, 2395 Abbott St., for their regular monthly meeting.

Of particular local interest among the artists and craftsmen in Kelowna, will be the visit and consultation with Leslie Graff, who is the director of the Visual Arts and Crafts Program for Alberta. The event will be jointly sponsored by the Kelowna and District Arts Council and the Kelowna Art Exhibit Society. Notice of times and place for this visit were arranged for publication in the news media.

The annual general meeting for the Kelowna Art Exhibit Society was set for April 26th, at Park Mall. Details and advertising for this to appear at a later date.

Mrs. Robert Hare's committee reported on the Children's Print Library to state that many new prints had been added since the New Year, some having been exchanged with Vernon, and that many brand new prints were in work, and would be added again at Easter. Loaning is brisk in this department.

Present hopes are centering around partial use of the old post office.

Broncos Too Pooped To Pant Murray Hanson Top Rookie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When it was all over Sunday night, Penitence Broncos were just too pooped to put the puck in the net.

The Broncos, playing their third British Columbia Junior Hockey League game in less than 24 hours, were bombed 9-4 by Chilliwack Bruins in a schedule that looked like a lost weekend.

Penitence wasn't the same team that blanked the Bruins 4-0 Saturday night, then stormed into Richmond Sunday to trample the Centennials.

for Chilliwack and Frank Hyndman added a pair. Dave O'Donnell, Bob McNeice, Darryl Dyck and Ron Popadeneiz collected the others.

Mulvey scored twice for Penitence, with single goals going to Terry Puska and Dave Bello.

In Kamloops, the Rockets overcame a second-period deficit to beat league-leading Vernon 7-6 in the last game of the season for both clubs.

The only other award winner announced Sunday didn't play last weekend.

Murray Hanson of Kelowna Buckaroos was selected rookie of the year. He had 25 goals and 37 assists in his first season out.

Wilt Homenuk of Winnipeg, who blew to a 71 Friday, never was a threatening factor thereafter and finished at 296, worth $200 but 13 strokes behind the co-leaders.

Jacobs, who won only $6,181 last year before getting hit with a six-month suspension that has just been lifted earned $14,300. Jacklin, who placed 102nd on the money list last year after winning $19,977, caught Jacobs with a birdie on the long-par-five 17th hole.

He finished with a four-under-par 68. Jacobs had a final round 70.

Australian Bruce Crampton closed with two birdies and gained a share of third place with Rod Funsch.

George Eaton of Toronto finished 11th, completing 136 laps in his turbo-charged Ford prepared by Fejer Bros. of Toronto.

Ludwig Meimrath of Toronto failed to qualify for the final field of 24.

Unser's speed for the 150 miles around the Phoenix International Raceway mile was 102.805 m.p.h. There were seven yellow light slowdowns caused by wrecks and spinouts, many of them during the last 50 miles.

Unser, 39, and his younger brother Al, the 1970-71 Indianapolis 500 winner, had won the front row starting positions, both at speeds well above Bobby Unser's one-lap mark of 134.932 m.p.h., which he set last October.

Jacklin Proves No Flash In Pan

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "I had a lot of things to prove to a lot of people, including Tony Jacklin."

Jacklin was discussing his playoff victory over Johnny Jacobs Sunday for the $25,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville open golf tournament.

"There was a lot on my shoulders," the handsome young Englishman said.

"Even though you've won two major championships, people forget in a hurry."

"Even some of the other pros are looking at you wondering if you're a flash in the pan."

"It was getting to me ... Maybe it was pressing too hard, trying too hard to win."

"So this one is extra."

Jacklin, winner of the 1969 British and the 1970 United States open championships, had suffered through a poor 1971 season before climaxing his comeback with a decision over Jacobs on the first extra hole at the Hidden Hills Country Club course.

Flood's Suit Back In Court Anti-Trust Violation Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today took up Curt Flood's suit against organized baseball.

Former justice Arthur J. Goldberg, in arguments prepared for a one-hour hearing, contended that the contract that binds a player to one team directly violates anti-trust laws.

Goldberg, representing the former St. Louis Cardinal centerfielder, urged the court to reverse a 1922 decision that exempted baseball from laws regulating interstate commerce.

He said the ruling was an anachronism.

But Paul A. Porter, a Washington lawyer, and Louis L. Joyntes Jr., a New York lawyer, cautioned that the reserve system is the cornerstone of baseball.

Without it, they said, the wealthiest teams in the largest cities would attract the best players, destroying baseball's competitive balance.

Backed by the players' union, Flood brought his damage suit against baseball after the Cardinals traded him to Philadelphia Phillies in 1969. He wanted to be made a "free agent," at liberty to play for a team of his choosing.

At the very least, Goldberg said, baseball should give players the limited freedom of action provided in football, basketball, hockey and other sports.

"The Sherman Act has long prohibited businessmen from entering into concerted agreements to eliminate competition among themselves in the production of commodities essential to their businesses. And businessmen are plainly prohibited by the act from utilizing concerted refusals to deal, or group boycotts," his brief said.

"There is little question but that organized baseball's reserve system falls squarely within these per se proscriptions."

But even if baseball retains its exemption from federal regulation, Goldberg said, it should be subject to state anti-trust laws.

Stick Swinging Investigated

MONTREAL (CP) — A stick-swinging incident between winger Wayne Cashman of Boston Bruins and centre Dennis Hextall of Minnesota North Stars was under investigation today by National Hockey League officials.

Scotty Morrison, NHL referee-in-chief, was reviewing television film of the incident and was to report his findings to league president Clarence Campbell.

The clash between Cashman and Hextall occurred near the end of the second period of the game played Sunday afternoon at Boston Garden.

The contest was televised in the United States and parts of Canada as the CBS NHL game-of-the-week.

The television audience and 14,995 fans at Boston watched Cashman slash at Hextall's ankles on two separate occasions after the Minnesota forward had picked up a loose puck in his own end and headed for the Boston net.

A replay showed that Hextall, after being relieved of the puck, retaliated against Cashman with a spearing motion of his stick that narrowly missed the Boston player's head.

This prompted the Bruins' gang up on Hextall behind the Boston net. Cashman then leaped into the crowd of players and brought his stick down toward Hextall's head. Hextall moved and the blow appeared to strike him on the shoulder.

Rule 44 (A) in the NHL rulebook calls for a match penalty against any player "who deliberately attempts to injure an opponent and the circumstances shall be reported to the president for further action."

North Delta finished in second place in the 16-team tourney with Belmont Braves of Victoria third, followed by Castlegar Rockers, Sir Winston Churchill Bulldogs of Vancouver, John Oliver Jokers of Vancouver, Prince George Polars and Burnaby South Rebels.

In the consolation championship, Belmont thumped John Oliver 80-59 as Lee Edmundson scored 29 points for the Braves. Norm Knowles scored 26 for John Oliver.

Named to the tournament all-star team were Jim Kupiak of Belmont, John Buis of North Delta, Stu Graham of North Delta, Lee Edmundson of Belmont and Hansen.

New members and long time members mingled in happy anticipation at the annual coffee party at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club Satur-

ANN LANDERS

The Bearded Question Cause Of Argument

Dear Ann Landers: My brother started to grow a beard two years ago when he was 19. It looked rather attractive when it was sort of a Van Dyke but now it's somewhat manly. My mother has been after him to trim it but he says he wants to see how long it will get.

Mom says it won't grow more than another few inches—down to the middle of his chest—because when a beard reaches a certain length, it stops growing. According to her it's nature's way of keeping beards from becoming dangerously long. Mom must be right because I've never seen a beard grow longer than the middle of a man's chest. Please explain how hair stops growing.—Beardologist At Berkeley

Dear Beardologist: Mom is wrong. Hair keeps growing, although the rate varies among individuals. For most people, it's about half an inch per month, whether you cut it or not. Back in 1877 a man named Philip Henson set his beard grow for 10 years. He was six feet, two inches tall. His beard reached the carpet and dragged for about six inches. So far as I know, this was the world's longest beard. I hope your brother doesn't try to break Mr. Henson's record.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago a close friend told me that last year my husband had a young child by a married woman. Her husband believes the child is his.

We have three children. My husband's cheating is an old story but news of this child came as a shock to me. It is almost too much to bear. I lie awake nights wondering what kind of man he is. How can he ignore this youngster? It makes him seem like some kind of monster.

Should I tell him I know and insist that he see the child? I started to say something to him at Christmas but I didn't have the courage. Should I go to the woman and demand that she tell her husband the truth?

I really don't hate her but sometimes I hate myself for staying with a man who is so hard-hearted. Divorce is out of the question. Our three children need him and he is a good father. What should I do, Ann?—Isommla

Dear In: Do nothing. You have no evidence that the story you heard is true. Put this episode out of your mind and don't discuss it with anyone. According to law the woman's husband is the father of her child. A married lover's confession would add nothing except confusion and misery for two families. The "friend" who gave you the word is no friend.

Dear Ann Landers: I realize you're not a travel writer but I consider you a friend, so I decided to ask for some help.

My husband passed away three months ago and I'm just now coming out of my grief. I'm making plans to go to Europe. It will be my first trip abroad. Can you give me a few packing guidelines and some travel hints? It would mean a great deal. Thanks very much.—Malden Voyage.

Dear Malden: The cardinal rules for any trip are these:

1. Take half as many clothes as you think you'll need and twice as much money.
2. If you don't wear it at home, don't take it on a trip. This goes for fancy extras, or a skirt or dress that's a smidge too tight.
3. Never put a bottle of anything liquid in your suitcase. If it can spill, it will. All liquids and creams should be placed in plastic bags.
4. Pack systematically so you'll know where everything is. It's maddening to have to pull everything apart to find a pair of hose.
5. Don't take more luggage than you can carry personally in an emergency.
6. Keep your passport, travel-

NOTRE DAME

Summer School Offers Variety

NELSON, B.C. — People who plan their summer holidays early will be intrigued by Notre Dame University's Summer School of the Arts brochure just available, which offers eight attractive courses between July 3 and 28.

With favorite courses retained—sometimes with new instructors—and one or two new courses introduced, it looks as though director, Ed Baravalle and co-ordinator Lisa Petter have compiled an appealing selection for those who like to combine summer relaxation with expert instruction in their favorite branch of the arts.

Primitive pottery, including salt-glazed stoneware, the use and adaptation of local clays, and construction of wood-fired kilns will be taught by George Cummings of Portland. Mr. Cummings is head of the pottery department at Portland's School of Arts and Crafts, and a potter of wide experience whose work is in permanent collections in Victoria Art Gallery and Confederation Art Gallery, Charlottetown.

Teaching the painting class this year is Steve Barrett, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Barrett of Nelson. Steve Barrett, who trained at Calgary College of Art, the Kootenay School of Art, and for two years at the prestigious Instituto Allende, Mexico, is one of B.C.'s most promising young artists. His years of creative study have given him a wide knowledge of techniques and styles and a sympathetic understanding of the needs of students.

Returning at the request of numerous students who enjoyed his informal but inspirational guitar course last summer is Joe Mock. Mr. Mock creates his own unique atmosphere for learning, and teachers and teen-agers, amateurs and pros all seem anxious to absorb his techniques and his musical philosophy.

Drama classes are usually filled to capacity at NDU's summer school, chiefly because of the first rate instruction given by such outstanding theatre men as Tom Kerr and Kenneth Dyba. Kerr and Dyba will be joined this year by Gill Bunch, well-known producer and B.C. adjudicator who trained in England with the Birmingham repertory company.

A new course in spinning, dyeing and weaving, with the popular macramé knot-work will be taught by Judith Bradford, who studied at Handcrafts House, North Vancouver, and has displayed at handcraft centres in Vancouver and other B.C. towns. This course emphasizes simple loom construction, weaving on Inkle and Salish looms and creative design in various fibres and textiles.

Last summer Edith Koenig's Hatha Yoga class had to be doubled—so many students, including those in academic classes at the university, wished to attend her daily sessions in controlled physical and mental relaxation, and the exercises which demonstrate the positive philosophy of Yoga. Mrs. Koenig is teaching two daily sessions of Yoga again this summer.

Lisa Petter, also acting as co-ordinator of this year's summer school of the arts, is offering a class in Eurythmics three days a week. With her training at the Vienna Academy of Music and Performing Arts, extensive experience in performance as a young dancer with the renowned Bodenweiser Ballet, and many years as a teacher of educational and creative dance and rhythmic, Lisa Petter is an inspiration to all those who aspire to fitness and grace.

Brochures containing full information on all courses may be obtained from the Registrar, Notre Dame University.

Use unpeeled apple wedges or slices to garnish salad plates, meat dishes and desserts. Dip the apple in pineapple or citrus juice to prevent discoloration. To add even more color, dip treated wedges in finely chopped parsley.

Credit Starts Money Classes

The second in the current series of consumer education classes at the Kelowna Secondary School, features guest speakers, Mrs. Lavender Hyde and Ronald Hood, both of the Kelowna Credit Union. They will present the first part of a two-night class on money management tonight.

Introducing the topic they will dwell on credit and savings and investments. The second phase of this section of the eight-week course, will include budgeting, insurance, estate planning and funerals. Resource personnel for the second half of money management will be Mrs. Betty Ann Greenwood, Russ Hawley, Clare Irish and a representative of the Kelowna Memorial Society.

Fifteen students have signed up for the courses which started on March 13, with guest speaker Mrs. Lois Smith of the department of consumer and corporate affairs, speaking on the need for consumerism, consumer traps and consumer protection.

Interested persons may still register for the remainder of the classes, which include in addition to the money management classes, sessions on food and drugs, housing and shelter, merchandising and appliances, clothing, textiles and rugs. Classes are held on successive Mondays starting at 7:30 p.m.

Esposito Shares Spotlight With Point-Happy Goalie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Phil Esposito erased another line from the National Hockey League scoring records Sunday, but the rangy Boston Bruins centre had to share the weekend spotlight with goaltender Ed Giacomin of New York Rangers.

While Esposito was scoring his 26th and 27th power play goals among three he fired in Boston's 7-3 win over Minnesota North Stars in an afternoon game, Giacomin got credit for two assists in the evening as the Rangers topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3.

Esposito's first goal against the Stars, his 60th of the year, was scored with Minnesota's Ted Harris in the penalty box and broke the record 25 set last year when the Bruins' super-shooter went on a record-breaking binge that included most goals (76) and most points (152).

Giacomin's two assists against the Leafs was the first such effort in modern NHL history although several goalies, including Giacomin, had picked up at least one assist in one or more games during the current campaign. Despite his scoring burst, the Ranger veteran remains tied with Detroit Red Wings' Al Smith in the goaltenders' scoring race. Each has four points this year.

SURPRISE HARS
The Wings, with Andy Brown backstopping, surprised Montreal Canadiens 7-6 with rookie Marcel Dionne's third goal of the night the margin in Sunday's victory.

The win, coupled with Toronto's loss, moved the Wings to within four points of the fourth-place Leafs and a playoff berth. Both clubs have six games remaining.

Elsewhere Sunday, three games ended in 3-3 ties and did little to change the tight Western Division race for the last two playoff spots.

St. Louis Blues, with 61 points, needed two goals in the last two minutes of the game at Vancouver to pull out a tie with the Canucks; Gerry Pinder's 23rd with nine seconds left pulled California Seals even with Pittsburgh Penguins and Dennis Hull's unassisted goal late in the game set up the tie in Chicago between Hull's Black Hawks and Buffalo Sabres. The Blues, third in the West, hold a one-point edge on California and are three-up on Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Flyers, who dropped their only weekend game, 5-3, to New York Saturday night.

In other Saturday games, Toronto held Chicago to a 2-2 tie but coupled with Minnesota's 4-3 loss at Montreal the Hawks clinched first in the West, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles Kings played to a 4-4 stalemate in another game.

Tuesday night Detroit visits Vancouver and California is at Minnesota.

CHEEVERS UNBEATEN
The Bruins, who are still eight points away from clinching their second successive East Division title, sealed the win at home with second-period goals by Johnny Bucyk and Esposito as goaltender Gerry Cheevers extended his personal unbeaten string to 30 games.

The Rangers, whose second-place standing in the East had been threatened by Montreal, opened a six-point cushion on the Canadiens. Each team has six games to play.

Giacomin drew assists on New York's third goal, by Bill Fairbairn, and on the wrap-up goal by Pete Stelmowski midway in the final period.

Fairbairn's goal loomed big in the outcome of the game after Leaf defence man Jim McKenny's goal five minutes earlier had tied the score at two apiece. Ranger defenceman Rod Seiling notched the winner, at 14:21 of the second period.

Oil Kings Flex Mighty Muscles Over Hapless Coast Opponents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Oil Kings flexed their muscles in British Columbia this weekend, defeating Victoria Cougars 4-2 and Vancouver Nats 6-5 in warmups to the playoffs in the western division of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Meanwhile, New Westminster Bruins, who meet the Oil Kings in quarter-finals starting March 26 in Edmonton, handed Victoria its second weekend defeat—7-2—and its 10th defeat in the 10 games the two clubs have played this season.

In the eastern division, Brandon Wheat Kings edged Saskatoon Blades 5-4, giving Saskatoon fans a possible taste of things to come when the two clubs meet in their semi-finals, starting next weekend.

Calgary Centennials and Medicine Hat Tigers fought to a 3-3 draw Saturday night in Medicine Hat. They'll meet again March 28 for an A-series playoff game.

BOMBERS BOMB JETS

In other weekend eastern division games, Flin Flon Bombers bombed Winnipeg Jets 6-4 in Winnipeg, and Regina Pats closed out the home-half of their schedule with a 3-0 victory over Swift Current Broncos.

The Oil Kings, second in the western division, jumped to a 3-0 lead midway through the second period-Saturday in Victoria before the Cougars scored.

But by early in the third period, the Cougars had cut the lead to one goal and had the Oil Kings on the run before Darcy Rota scored on a breakaway to give them a two-goal cushion.

Other Edmonton goals were by Don Kozak, Henry Van Druenen and Brian Ogilvie. Murray Kennett and 16-year-old rookie Al McLaren answered for the Cougars.

Sunday, the Oil Kings played four minutes and 11 seconds into sudden-death overtime before Terry McDonald brought the game to an end. McDonald scored on a goal-mouth scramble that capped an Edmonton rally from a 5-3 deficit early in the last period.

Terry Smith, Ogilvie, Kozak, Rota and Van Druenen scored the other Edmonton goals.

Bill Ennos, Dave Costanzo, Tom Gaurvitz, John Laskoski and Murray Back scored for the Nats, last in the western division.

Third-place New Westminster kept their western division record against the Cougars intact with their trouncing of Victoria Sunday.

Five Cougars and three Bruins were ejected after a brawl late in the second period, which started when Murray Worley of the Cougars and Ron Greshner of the Bruins square off.

When The Pay Board Said No, U.S. Dock Strike Looms Again

NEW YORK (AP) - The pay board said no, and the spectre of a dock workers' strike became the most significant business development in the United States last week.

The question was whether a 134-day strike at West Coast ports would be renewed-and if so, whether it might spread to East and Gulf Coast ports.

The vote was 8 to 5 against the shipping contract, which the board calculated would bring wage increases and higher fringe benefits of 20.9 per cent in the first year.

It indicated, however, that it would approve a settlement of 14.9 per cent, leaving intact pension, insurance and disability provisions of 4.9 per cent, but cutting the wage boost to 10 from 16 per cent.

Price commission rules allow corporations with annual sales of $100 million or more to enter voluntarily into agreements with the commission, under which increases are to be held to a specified average per year, but allowing increases on individual products to run higher.

LIMITS SET
The commission recently cut the average to 1.8 per cent a year from two per cent. As a further step it ruled that henceforth increases on individual items could be no higher than eight per cent.

The Senate judiciary committee continued its investigation of a commitment by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. to help finance the Republican

BOY DIES
VANCOUVER (CP) - Christian Nels Bro, 13, of Matsqui, died at Vancouver General Hospital Saturday after almost drowning in the pool of the Jericho Hill School for the handicapped Wednesday. He was found in eight feet of water and revived by school attendants. An investigation has been ordered by the school.

URNS GONE
VANCOUVER (CP) - Police believe a truck was used by thieves to carry away two urns valued at $3,000 from the porch of lumberman Walter Koerner's house Saturday. One was of Italian origin and the other was Spanish.

ROY FALLS
VICTORIA (CP) - Rod Wells, 16, of Victoria, was in poor condition in Queen Victoria Hospital Sunday after falling 100 feet into Pinlayson Arms at the south end of Saanich Inlet.

REJECT SPENDING
LADYSMITH (CP) - Ratepayers in this Vancouver Island town Saturday rejected a school district referendum seeking approval to spend more than $92,000 above the government - set annual operating budget. The vote was 1,107 to 868 against.

CHABOT SAID WRONG
VANCOUVER (CP) - A statement by Labor Minister James Chabot in the legislature Thursday that British Columbia has enacted minimum wage requirements for both sexes was denied Sunday by the Status of Women Council. The council said his statement, carefully, hid "the fact that equal pay legislation is not enforced in B.C. any more than it is in other provinces."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

How Long To Live With Hard Arteries

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 75 years old and the doctor told me I had hardening of the arteries. Is there anything I can do to help myself, and how long will anyone live with it?—Mrs. F. R. B.

I'd be astonished if, at your age, you didn't have some hardening of the arteries. It's a part of the aging process. The question is how much hardening, and where it is, and how much it bothers you.

The best thing to do about it is to accentuate the positive, as the song used to say. Instead of worrying about how long you can live with old arteries, take pride in the fact that you've already had 75 years of life, which is better than average. Whether you'll live another 10 years or 20 nobody can predict.

It will help if you understand what we mean by hardening of the arteries. As the years pass, the walls of your arteries thicken and accumulate a certain amount of plaque, or fatty deposits.

This limits the quantity of blood flowing through them. That's why older folks feel cold weather more than younger ones do. If the hardening is extreme in some particular area (the hardening isn't necessarily the same in all parts of the body) there can be specialized problems—difficulty in walking, dizzy spells, any number of things.

But one of the generalized consequences is likely to be high blood pressure. You can do something about that. You may need medication for it and your doctor may tell you to eat as little salt as possible. If you have a weight problem, reducing will help.

There isn't, however, any medication that will "unharden" arteries. Various theories have been advanced, tricky diets suggested, and so on. None of these has been verified as effective, although extensive research continues in hopes of finding some way to do it.

But since it takes years for the arteries to harden, it may be asking too much to hope for a quick and easy way to reverse the process. To some of us, it sounds a bit like the fountain of youth that Ponce de Leon hunted for.

For practical purposes, the best ways to take care of yourself when arteries have started to harden are to remain as active as you comfortably can, eat sensibly, keep your weight stable, reduce salt intake if your doctor tells you to and keep your blood pressure down to a reasonable level.

And don't worry too much about how long you can live with hardened arteries. Worry will do more harm than good. Just be glad you've lived long enough to have some hardening of the arteries.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You mentioned a drug called Anabuse which makes a person sick when alcohol is taken. I'd like to know how to go about getting this drug. Is it safe to give to a person, and is it in a form that could be given without his knowing about it?—Mrs. F. M.

The drug is available only on prescription and can be harmful unless given with the patient's knowledge. In other words, it is a help for a person who wants to give up alcohol but is not a method of making him quit alcohol against his will.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Someone told me that stainless steel is not safe cookware and neither is Teflon. Is this true?—L. B.

No, it's not true. For a random guess, I'd suspect the rumor is being propagated by somebody trying to get even with people who circulate equally untrue rumors that aluminum cookware isn't safe. The rumors are a lot of nonsense but in many cases are circulated to sell one kind of pots or another.

Opening lead—ace of diamonds.

This hand occurred in the match between Italy and Iceland in the World Bridge Olympiad in 1968. When Pabst Tiedt and D'Alleio, playing the Roman Club system, were North-South, the auction went as shown.

North's diamond bid was in accordance with the system—an opening club bid would have represented a different type of hand. South's two club responses was also consistent with the system, which generally requires the shorter suit to be mentioned first.

Most of the later bids showed first or second round control in the suits named, and this enabled the Roman pair to reach six clubs—which was easily made. D'Alleio lost only a diamond trick.

Strangely enough, Iceland's North-South pair at the other table were also playing the Roman Club.

But, as has been said so often with telling accuracy, it's not the system that counts but rather the players behind it—as the Icelanders quickly demonstrated when they bid:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♠	Pass	2♣
Pass	3♣	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♣	Pass	3NT
Pass	4♥	Pass	4♠
Pass	4NT	Pass	5♦
Pass	6♦

The bidding was much simpler, but at the same time much less effective. The first two rounds of bidding were the same, but North's three no-trump bid—instead of three spades—proved fatal. South had to pass, and so the slam was missed.

Moreover, to make matters still worse, East led a diamond against three notrump and the upshot was that Iceland lost not only a slam but a game as well.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, March 21

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take nothing for granted this complex day. Everybody has a different story and parties to celebrate astrological new year have special interest.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Check heavy equipment carefully; if others use it, stay out of their way. Where you can partake in responsibility for difficult chores, do so.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Promises are plentiful; the larger the prestige the less explicit their terms. Believe in your own prowess and proceed in earnest.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The less you expect from people with authority, the better off you are. Be self-reliant. Take what you can get.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Details get snarled in endless discussions. Your patience will be remembered dimly but will produce the ultimate result you want.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Tact is your main tool for prying apart tangles of this stressed day. People change sides abruptly. Don't assume everybody is in the same place.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Impulse pops up all around, may bring friction, needless confusion. Tact is a requisite if you are to deal with an unfair question or demand.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The familiar seems under control; the unknown provides doubt. Rely on the quality of your achievements; state your case with courage.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Whatever discrepancies exist come readily to view, evaluation. You at least can deal with them and get things straight.

ful; double check work yourself to make it error-free. It's a great day for an independent spirit.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Deal with cherished relationships gently. Rational explanations aren't enough—go to non-verbal demonstration of true feelings. Postpone new work projects.

Stocks Spend Rest Of Week Recovering From Sharp Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—After posting its sharpest loss in recent months Monday, the New York stock market spent the next four days regaining lost ground and ended the week with a mixed showing.

On Monday, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial fell 11.21 points, its largest single-day loss since last November.

The blue-chip indicator then began a rising and, except for a slight dip on Thursday, climbed steadily to close with a 3.01-point gain for the week at 142.85.

The rest of the market, though, showed a net loss for the week, as the profit-taking chipped away at recent gains. The news background carried several indications of an improving economy, including reports of a sharp increase in New York housing starts and industrial production last month. Also, a boost in the floating prime rate by two major New York banks was expected to halt the outflow of interest-bearing dollars to foreign money markets, brokers said.

"The market at this juncture seems to be more responsive to internal technical factors than to fundamental news," said Newton Zinder, analyst with E. F. Hutton Co.

Of the 1,912 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 639 advanced and 1,072 declined. There were 136 highs for the year and 19 lows.

Newfoundland's Election A Placid Thing So Far

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's eighth provincial election campaign since the province joined Confederation in 1949 has only a few days to go and unless it warms up in the home stretch it will be the most placid of them all.

Most observers say a quiet, low-key campaign for next Friday's election is no surprise because it is the second provincial campaign in only five months, with a party leadership race in between.

Many voters, say these observers, have become over-exposed to politicking.

As Telegram columnist Ray Guy puts it: They have "the dread Sally's Cove Syndrome."

But the prevalence of politics in Newfoundland since the campaign leading to the indecisive election last October may not be the only underlying cause of that "syndrome", named for the tiny outpost where 105 ballots were accidentally burned after the last election before a count could be held.

SHORT OF MONEY

The coffers of both major parties—the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals—are said to have been severely drained by the October election, and the weather for Newfoundland's first winter campaign hasn't helped matters.

At one rural rally, party organizers professed to be genuinely amazed by a turnout of 56 party faithful because highways in the area were so dangerous that police warned people to stay off them.

Frank Moores, the 39-year-old Progressive Conservative premier, suffered minor frostbite while campaigning in one northern Newfoundland riding and Liberal Leader Edward Roberts, 31-year-old successor to former premier Joseph Smallwood, pulled on arctic gear and took off by snowmobile this week to visit coastal communities in Labrador.

Driving conditions have all but eliminated the standby of pangs—the motorcade.

Although two of Newfoundland's previous provincial elections were held in November, this one "is by far the riskiest weatherwise," says one party worker here. It is unlikely that either major party leader will be able to visit all 41 ridings and stormy weather on election day could cut into the vote.

SMALLWOOD MISSING

Few new issues have been introduced in this campaign, the first in which Mr. Smallwood has not been involved. Now 71, the former Liberal premier had won six elections in a row before last fall's near dead heat. He later resigned and Mr. Roberts was elected party leader.

The Conservatives won 21 of the 42 legislative seats—Harbour Main riding elects two members—and the Liberals won 20. The other was won by Tom Burgess, running as leader of the New Labrador Party. However, a series of resignations and defections left the parties with 20 seats each and two seats vacant when the legislature met March 1 with the Conservatives in power for the first time in Newfoundland's 23-year history as a Canadian province.

Late that day, the legislature was dissolved and the new election called.

Personal issues have been sprinkled through the campaign, with the Conservatives occasionally recalling Mr. Smallwood as a "dictator", and various politicians who switched sides, including Mr. Burgess, being labelled "turncoats".

Although the Conservatives emerged from the Oct. 28 election with a slim majority, a series of legal battles over a disputed seat kept them out of office until Jan. 18. Mr. Burgess, the former NLP leader, promised in November to support the Conservatives, then decided to sit as an independent, and finally switched to the Liberals Jan. 31 along with Hugh Shea, who had been elected as a Conservative in October.

Meanwhile, two members elected as Liberals in October resigned and this brought the parties to a 20-20 tie in seats with the Conservatives' voting strength cut to 19 after electing a speaker.

Mr. Moores said it was impossible to govern in such an "unstable position" and he called the election.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters) — The British telephone service, which now provides callers with anything from a daily menu or a bedtime story to pop songs and cricket scores, today came up with a new one—a horoscope.

The post office, which runs the telephone system, said that callers in this industrial city can hear the voice of Maurice Woodruff, well known in Britain as a clairvoyant, predicting what the stars foretell, as well as a special birthday forecast.

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — A convict at the Oklahoma state penitentiary has been recommended for clemency after telling the state pardon and parole board he doesn't have a whisky problem because he drinks "scotch."

The board Sunday recommended commutation of the sentence of Edward Dawson, 69, serving life for the 1952 murder of Malina Garrett, his common-law wife.

"Did you ever have any trouble with whisky?" board chairman Charles Chestnut asked.

"No, I drink scotch," Dawson replied.

The board, noting his age and health, recommended that he be freed.

LONDON (AP) — Many young English couples are faking living in sin.

Secretly they've done the one thing not permitted by their permissive friends.

They've got married.

Free love has so much more status than marriage among the permissive set that when couples really do want to wed, many have to do it furtively.

Then they fake the living in sin.

It's because they're too ashamed to tell their friends, says Stanley Jepson, an English marriage licence registrar. "They are afraid of being thought old-fashioned," he said in an interview Sunday.

"They are told that marriage is finished and that to get married is no longer 'with it'."

"They don't realize that their friends are probably in the same boat."

"Far from becoming unpopular, marriage is on the increase."

SPITTING

The greatest distance achieved by any national champion is 25 feet 10 inches by Don Snyder, United States national champion, at Raleigh, Miss., August, 1970. Distance is dependent on the quality of salivation, absence of cross wind and the co-ordination of the quick lip and neck snap. His prize was a gold-plated, slightly used spittoon or cuspidor.

The record for projecting a melon seed is 33 feet 3½ inches by Craig Jones at the world championship at Pardeeville, Wis., Sept. 13, 1969.
